Crossing Borders in Sino-American Relations

Using the stories of Chinese and other migrants and refugees caught in limbo by Cold War politics, Meredith Oyen will discuss the role that transnational migration and migrants themselves play in 1950s relations between the People's Republic of China, Republic of China (on Taiwan), Hong Kong, and the United States. Oyen is an assistant professor at University of Maryland, Baltimore County, teaching American foreign relations and Asian Studies. She came to UMBC via the Johns Hopkins University-Nanjing University Center for Chinese and American Studies, where she was a visiting professor of American Studies from 2008-2010. Oyen received her Ph.D. in U.S. Diplomatic History, minor in Modern China, from Georgetown University in 2007.
