

- Temple University
- College of Liberal Arts
- Feinstein Center

WHAT IS YOUR FOOD WORTH?

Food Logo

Temple University's

Feinstein Center for American Jewish History

In partnership with

The Gershan Y, the National Museum of American Jewish History, and Congregation Rodeph Shalom

presents

A TWO-YEAR LONG CONVERSATION ABOUT FOOD, ETHICS, SUSTAINABILITY, AND EATING JEWISH.

For a complete calendar and ongoing conversations about Jewish foodways, please visit www.whatisyourfoodworth.com

www.temple.edu/feinsteinctr

October 2, 5:30pm

Si'ach* (Conversation) in the Sukkah: What Is Your Food Worth?

Congregation Rodeph Shalom

A panel discussion on making everyday ethical choices about food. Light snacks and drinks will be

Rescheduled November 13, 7:00pm

Bagel Making

Spread Bagelry, 262 S. 20th Street, Philadelphia

The master bakers at Philadelphia's Spread Bagelry, a Montreal-style bagelry, will lead a limited seating hands-on bagel making workshop. $24.

served.

Panelists:

Jeff Benjamin, Vetri Foundation; Laurel Klein, organizer of Center City CSA and owner of Café Olam; Kevin Kleinman, Associate Rabbi at Reform Congregation Keneseth Israel; and Andrew Siegel, owner of Fare Restaurant. Moderated by Bryant Simon, Professor of History, Temple University, and Eli Freedman, Assistant Rabbi at Congregation Rodeph Shalom.

October 10, 12:00pm

When Harry Met Sally: The Deli in Popular Culture

Temple University Hillel (1441 Norris Street)

Lunch on deli sandwiches and learn from Ted Merwin, Associate Professor of Religion and Judaic Studies, Dickinson College, writer, journalist, Tickets and registration information at www.gershmany.org.

Rescheduled

February 12, 2013, 3:30pm

They Were What They Ate: Immigrant Jews and the Encounter with America

Weigley Room, 9th floor, and author of Pastrami on Rye: An Overstuffed History of the Jewish Deli. Registration information at www.temple.edu/feinsteinctr.

October 16, 7:00pm

Inside the Jewish Bakery: Book Reading with Stanley Ginsberg

The Gershman Y

Inside the jewish bakery

Baker Stanley

Ginsberg takes the audience on a tour of classic Jewish baked goods to explain where they came

Gladfelter Hall, Temple University

A presentation by Hasia Diner, Professor of History and Hebrew and Judaic Studies, New York University, and author of Hungering for America: Italian, Irish, and Jewish Foodways in the Age of Migration.

November 7, 7:00pm

Learning about America from Starbucks

Congregation Rodeph Shalom

Bryant Simon, Professor of History, Temple University, explores the worlds of Starbucks, McNuggets, and Atlantic City for what they reveal about American life. Simon is author of Boardwalk of Dreams: Atlantic City and the Fate of Urban America (2004), and Everything But The Coffee: Learning about America from Starbucks (2009).

What Is Your Food Worth? continues in the spring. Check out our websites for details on these programs and others:

from and why it's important to preserve these foods for a new generation. Followed by refreshments from Philadelphia's Spread Bakery and a hands-on challah braiding demonstration. $8. $5 Temple U. Students with Valid ID. Tickets and registration information at www.gershmany.org.

Hebrew National

6:30pm

Just a Pinch: A Brief and Unofficial History of Jewish Cooking in America

National Museum of American Jewish

October 24,

March 13, 2013, Mark Bittman, New York Times food columnist at Congregation Rodeph Shalom.

April 15, 2013, "How Kosher is Kosher?" a symposium on Jews, food, and ethics, with Sue Fishkoff, journalist, editor of j., the Jewish news weekly of Northern California, and author of Kosher Nation, followed by a panel discussion.

Unless otherwise indicated, all events held at Temple University, The Gershman Y (401 S. Broad Street, Philadelphia, www.gershmany.org), Congregation Rodeph Shalom (615 N. Broad Street, Philadelphia, www.rodephshalom.org) and the National Museum of American Jewish History (101 South Independence Mall East, Philadelphia, www.nmajh.org).

History

A special peek into the once-classic and now forgotten Jewish cookbooks held in the Museum's collection, including readings by special guests. Vintage recipes come to life at the light reception immediately to follow. $8 NMAJH Members and Students with Valid ID; $5 Temple U. Students with Valid ID; $12 Non-members. Tickets at www.nmajh.org.

College of Liberal Arts at Temple University

Feinstein Center at Temple University

The Myer & Rosaline Feinstein Center for American Jewish History
Temple University

1115 West Berks Street, Room 916 Philadelphia, PA 19122

Tel: 215 204-9553 Fax: 215 204-5891

feinsteincenter@temple.edu